Online Resource Guide (pp. 2-8) & Bibliography of Materials (pp. 9-19) January 2001

A digitized version of this document is available in Microsoft Outlook's Public Folders, accessible through your TJSL e-mail account. Within the Public Folders, click on "All Public Folders" then "Research Guides."

The entries in this document are based on the Spring 2001 Elective Course Descriptions contained in your registration materials, as follows:

Cybercrimes will examine crimes accomplished through the use of the Internet. These crimes include copyright violations, hacking, computer viruses and Internet pornography. The course also will examine some procedural topics in criminal cases, including jurisdictional questions and the constitutionality of police searches conducted over the Internet. The course will cover the elements of various Internet crimes and consider basic questions raised by prosecution of Internet activities. For example, will criminal prosecutions destroy the anonymity and the freedom of the Internet. In addition, the course will discuss the difficulties of prosecuting Internet crimes, where the perpetrators may be located outside of the United States, and may move their operations on a regular basis.
