INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LAW
SUMMER STUDY ABROAD PROGRAM

JUNE 16–JULY 12, 2018 IN NICE, FRANCE
INTRODUCTION

Thomas Jefferson School of Law, in cooperation with the Faculté de Droit de l'Université de Nice, presents a four week, ABA approved, International and Comparative Law Summer Study Abroad Program in Nice, France.

While this is an eleven-year old program under the sponsorship of Thomas Jefferson School of Law, this summer abroad program continues the same Nice Summer Abroad Program that was founded and directed by Professor Susan Tiefenbrun 25 years ago. Classes are held at the University of Nice School of Law. Centrally located in the south of France on the banks of the Mediterranean Sea, the University of Nice School of Law offers an ideal environment for learning international and comparative law in a city that is both beautiful and rich in European culture and history. In the Nice Program, American students study international law together with students from Europe and all parts of the world in a truly international atmosphere. The program is designed to encourage students to exchange ideas and explore cultural differences that influence international legal transactions. In 2017, 29 students attended the Nice Program, including 19 American students and 10 European students from the Nice Law School. The participation of European students from the University of Nice School of Law in each of the four courses offered is an important feature of this program. Limited internships may be available for students participating in the program.

Nice Program activities include a day in the French court, a Brown-bag Luncheon Lecture Series featuring distinguished judges, law professors and practitioners of international law, a French class offered for free to all students, a welcoming reception and a goodbye party for students and faculty, and other events.
LOCATION

Nice is in the heart of the French Riviera, and is the largest city situated on the banks of the Mediterranean Sea between Genoa and Marseille. It is an ancient city founded by the Greeks, who called it “Nike,” or victory.

Today, Nice is modern and cosmopolitan, reflecting cross cultural influences from Greece, Rome, Provence, the Alps, and the Italian provinces of Liguria and Piedmont. People come to Nice to experience great cuisine, the joys of opera, the sounds of jazz, and the colors of Matisse, Chagall, and other painters who were moved by its luminous skies and verdant hills. It is only minutes away from the home of Renoir in Cagnes sur Mer; the excitement of the annual film festival in Cannes and the jazz festival in Nice; the elegant town of Antibes; the sandy beaches of Cannes, St. Tropez, Juan les Pins, and Cap d’Ail; the opulent casinos of Monaco; the medieval village of Eze; and the magnificent Rothschild villa near St. Jean Cap Ferrat.

From Nice, you are a short train or plane ride to Spain, Switzerland, and Italy. Three and four-day weekend trips can include Paris, Lyon, the chateaux of the Loire Valley, Florence, Venice, the running of the bulls in Pamplona or the ski slopes of Grenoble and Switzerland.
ACADEMIC PROGRAM

Courses offered in the Nice Program have an international focus and compare American and European approaches to law. All classes are conducted in English, and none of the courses offered has prerequisites. Classes meet four times per week, Monday through Thursday, in the morning only. Each course in the program is rated at two credit hours, involving fourteen 100-minute sessions of instruction and a two hour examination.* Registrants may enroll in up to two of the four courses for a maximum of four credit hours. All courses offered are fully equivalent for credit purposes to those courses offered at Thomas Jefferson School of Law. Grades are based on an examination in each course. (See Admission Criteria and Grades for more information.) Thomas Jefferson School of Law reserves the right to limit enrollment in particular courses; students who register for courses that have already been closed will be notified.

In addition to the law courses and guest lectures, a French conversation course is offered to registrants without an additional charge. The conversation course, which is not offered for college credit, is available to registrants and accompanying persons, including spouses and school-aged children.

There will also be a Brown-Bag Luncheon Lecture Series with distinguished speakers and experts in the field of international law.

Students arrive in Nice on Saturday, June 16, 2018 and depart on Thursday, July 12, 2018. The program begins with a Welcoming Reception on the evening of Sunday, June 17, 2018. There will be a short Orientation session on the first day of classes, Monday, June 18, 2018, at the University of Nice School of Law at 8:30 a.m. All classes on June 18 only will be delayed by one hour to allow for Orientation. Therefore, on June 18 only, classes will begin at 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m., respectively.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS (2 credits)
Professor Susan Tiefenbrun

This course examines the global human rights movement that grew out of World War II and how international human rights laws, instruments and institutions respond to human rights violations. International human rights include civil and political rights, economic rights, social and cultural rights, women’s rights and children’s rights. These rights are reflected in legal norms, political contexts, moral ideas, international relations, and foreign policy. This course uses an interdisciplinary approach to examine the laws and policies of international human rights as applied to all individuals in general and to women in particular. The course reviews applicable international human rights laws, instruments, U.N. treaty organs, regional and international tribunals, and the role of NGOs in the human rights movement. The course analyzes state and international policies, practices, and attitudes in order to understand the causes and consequences of discrimination and abuse perpetrated on individuals. Gender justice and the empowerment of women to facilitate full enjoyment of their human rights, accountability, and enforcement are central themes of the course. Special attention is paid to the universal crime of sex slavery, human trafficking, and rape as a weapon of war in the development of massive human rights violations. The prevalent use of children as soldiers is also examined. Students analyze the rules and standards of contemporary human rights as expressed in states’ constitutions, laws, practices, international treaties, customs, court decisions, investigative reports, and recommendations of international institutions, and governmental and non-governmental actors in order to understand the ongoing development of international human rights laws.

INTERNATIONAL SPORTS LAW (2 credits)
Professor Randy Grossman

This course covers the general process of international sports law - especially within the Olympic Movement - and provides a comparative perspective on sports law. Specific topics include the institutional framework; arbitration and litigation of disputes within and outside the sports arena, including consideration of the Court of Arbitration for Sports (via in-depth case studies of recent dispute resolution); the rights, duties and eligibility of athletes; problems of doping, violence, corruption, commercialization; and the role of politics in international sports. Other topics include the human rights of athletes, the use of instant replay cameras and computers to resolve disputes during competition, corruption in the sports arena, the emerging lex sportiva derived from arbitral awards and ambush marketing.
INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND FINANCE LAW (2 credits)
Professor Richard Winchester
This course will introduce the student to the legal regime that applies to international letters of credit, the principal mechanism for financing imports and exports. The course has no prerequisites and assumes no prior knowledge of international trade or finance. Instead, the student will be introduced to the basic structure of an international transaction that employs a letter of credit to finance the sale of goods. The student will also study the various contractual relationships that arise out of the transaction and the connection that each relationship has to the financing arrangement. The overarching objective is to help the student understand the various facets of the financing arrangement, the role that each party plays in the arrangement, the legal exposure that each party might assume whenever a letter of credit is used to finance the transaction, and the potential ways for managing any inherent risks.

ALTERNATIVE HOUSING OPTIONS

The cost of housing and hotels in Nice during high season is very high. It is a crowded area, and hotels are all booked up very early. The cost of these residences and hotels above is based on a 26-day stay, and you must pay in full on the first day of arrival. You cannot check out on weekends and return on Monday expecting your room to be available. You must pay in full on the first day for 26 days. Charges such as telephone, laundry, etc., are additional. The number of rooms in each category is limited; Make your reservations yourself as soon as you are sure you are going to the Nice Program. A credit card is required to reserve your room with payment for your full stay due upon check-in. Do not wait until the last minute because housing on the French Riviera during high season is expensive and difficult to find if you wait until the last minute. Cancellation of your reservation may result in a penalty that you will be required to pay. Prices are subject to last minute changes by the hotel or residence. Make sure you arrive on the correct day.
(Saturday June 16) and you leave on the correct day (July 12). If you want to stay one day longer than the date of departure you give the hotel, you need to write to the hotel again and change your date of departure. If you do not do that, you will not be permitted to stay one extra day because the hotel books all reservations in advance.

Be aware that the summer is high season in Nice and across the French Riviera; this will be reflected in prices and availability. Since you are arranging your own housing while participating in Thomas Jefferson School of Law's Nice Study Abroad Program, you must provide the Director before the start of the Nice Program the name, address and phone number of your housing choice. If the Director is not informed of the name and location of your housing in Nice, you will not be admitted to the Program.
MEALS

Students may prepare their own meals in the fully-equipped kitchen of their studio or apartment, or they may choose to eat meals at the numerous restaurants in the area. Although prices will depend on fluctuations in the currency, lunch typically costs between $10 and $15; an inexpensive dinner can cost between $15 and $20.

The grading policy in the program is the same as in the regular course of study at Thomas Jefferson School of Law. The grade scale is: A+, A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+, C, C-, D+, D and F. Upon request, a transcript will be sent to each student and each student’s law school by the registrar of Thomas Jefferson School of Law. To request a transcript after participating in the program, students should complete a transcript request form (form and instructions are available on our website at www.tjsl.edu/academics/registrar/transcripts) and submit it to the Thomas Jefferson School of Law Registrar’s Office. All inquiries about transcripts should be sent to the Registrar’s Office at registrar@tjsl.edu.

Acceptance of academic credit is at the discretion of the applicant’s home school. It is unlikely that participation in a foreign summer program may be used to accelerate graduation. Students interested in acceleration are advised to address this issue with their home schools.

TRANSPORTATION AND MEDICAL INSURANCE

Students are responsible for making their own travel arrangements. It is strongly advised to make flight arrangements and obtain travel insurance months in advance. Discount travel rates on regularly scheduled airlines are available through travel agencies and over the Internet, as well as through a student discount travel agency, AESU. For flight information, contact AESU at 1.800.638.7640 for the Nice Program. The Nice airport is the second largest in France, and there are many flight options for travel from the United States to Nice. Students are advised to obtain their passport as soon as possible due to long delays at the passport office. Passport information must be turned in 30 days prior to the start of the program.

FINANCIAL AID
Students may be able to apply for student loans to cover the cost of tuition and living expenses. It is each student’s responsibility to ensure that the appropriate paperwork has been completed. For TJSI students, the Office of Financial Aid contact person is Marc Berman, Director of Financial Assistance. He can be reached by phone at 619.961.4271, by email at mberman@tjsl.edu or by fax at 619.961.1270. Thomas Jefferson School of Law students who plan to attend and want to finance the program should apply online for their Graduate-PLUS loans. The Financial Aid Office will schedule your Graduate-PLUS disbursement to arrive approximately 10 days before the term begins so please make sure to apply 6-8 weeks before our disbursement date to ensure loans arrive on time.

Apply early for financial aid. Students cannot attend the Program until tuition is paid in full.

All students should be aware of the timing of student loan disbursements. In many cases, loan funds may not be available until shortly before the program begins or, in some cases, not until after students have already departed. Therefore, it is important to students have access to some other source of funds until the loan funds become available. Students who withdraw after May 18, 2018, or who do not complete their coursework, will be held responsible for payment of tuition in full.
