Welcome Incoming TJSL Students

On Friday, August 17, the Student Bar Association (SBA), Law Review, Phi Alpha Delta (PAD), and La Raza introduced themselves to the incoming 1L class during orientation.

The SBA was represented by President Gabe Baldini, Vice President Kevin Donovan, Treasurer Houtan Yaghmai, and Secretary Mike Morphew. Baldini and Donovan spoke about the role that the SBA plays at the school, including TJSL / SBA events, the student run online newspaper, The Jeffersonian, and leadership positions.

New SBA President Balsini reminded students not to over-extend themselves in their first year, but at the same time to be mindful of opportunities that present themselves.

Editor-in-Chief Walter Araujo introduced Law Review, and described the significance of Law Review in the legal world. Advantages include improved writing skills that employers want from their new hires.

Chelsea Halpine-Berger talked about the networking advantages, as well as the social and professional events, that PAD provides.

Roberto Rico for La Raza invited students of all backgrounds to participate in the organization.

In closing, Gabe Baldini reminded students to get involved and take a shot at opportunities, because as Wayne Gretzky said, “you miss 100 percent of the shots you don’t take.”

TJSL’s new incoming class has started a Facebook page for new students to get to know each other:

Thomas Jefferson School of Law Class of 2015
Bicycling 90 miles in the scorching heat of Death Valley to raise money for the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF) represents much more than a humanitarian endeavor and endurance challenge for Professor Ken Vandevelde and his 23-year-old daughter Jenny. It’s a deeply personal mission because Jenny has lived with juvenile diabetes, also known as type 1 diabetes (T1D), since she was 14.

"This disease cannot be prevented, but there is hope for a cure," says Professor Vandevelde. "That is why we are riding."

To help find that cure, the close father-daughter team has committed to raising $6,000 before they begin their long Death Valley bike trek on October 20. Next weekend, along with Professor Vandevelde’s wife Lidia, they are hosting an impressive fundraising event and invite members of the TJSL community to support the cause.

T1D is an autoimmune disease that kills the insulin-producing cells in the body that enable people to get energy from food. It can strike anyone. Unlike type II diabetes, it is not related to a person’s weight or activity level. Millions of people worldwide have juvenile diabetes. Diabetes is the seventh leading cause of death in the United States. Recent statistics from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) are alarming: T1D in people under age 20 rose by 23 percent in the last decade.

Jenny Vandevelde, who has experienced her own close calls with the disease, has lost two friends to juvenile diabetes in just the past year. One was an 8-year-old boy she counseled at a summer camp for children with diabetes. He died in his sleep.

"That is what juvenile diabetes does," Professor Vandevelde explains. “It kills children while they sleep. If you are a parent with a child who has diabetes, you go to bed every night wondering whether your child will be alive in the morning. If you are a child with diabetes, you go to bed every night not knowing whether you will wake up."

This marks the third time in recent years that he and his daughter have participated in the JDRF Ride to Cure Diabetes in Death Valley. Situated within the Mojave Desert in Eastern California near the Nevada border, Death Valley definitely earns its name by being home to the lowest, driest and hottest locations in North America.

“In 2006, we rode 58 miles in a temperature of 117 degrees,” recalls Professor Vandevelde. “The heat was so intense that Jenny’s glucose meter stopped working and she had to complete much of the ride with blood sugar levels that were more than four times the normal level, a condition that is both physically painful and dangerous, but she refused to give up. In 2007, we rode 66 miles in a temperature of 109 degrees while fighting ferocious winds that gusted at up to 80 miles per hour and that repeatedly blew us off the road.”

No matter how hot it gets this year, their goal is to ride the full 90 miles - 10 years for each year that Jenny has had diabetes. They’ve been training all summer, but as Professor Vandevelde notes, "Training is the easy part. The real struggle is fundraising."

They've already raised some of their $6,000 pledge through donations and are hoping to raise more with their fundraising extravaganza under the stars this Saturday, August 25, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at a private home in the beautiful gated community of Santa Luz. For the cost of a $20 admission ticket, guests will be treated to a delicious paella dinner prepared by a local restaurant chef, live entertainment by Season 10 American Idol contestant Kristi Krause and a local jazz band, and a silent auction featuring more than $7,000 worth of great items. Among the many auction items are an X Box 360 Kinect, a tandem paragliding session, a kayak tour of the La Jolla Caves, a Humanoid Wakeboard, a private surfing lesson, and gift cards to numerous San Diego restaurants and other businesses.

“This is an opportunity to acquire some great stuff at well below market value,” says Professor Vandevelde. “But most important, your ticket or donation will also bring you the good karma that comes from helping millions of children who suffer from this autoimmune disease or will suffer from it if a cure is not found.”

All proceeds will be donated to the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, but only 100 tickets to the fundraiser will be sold. To purchase tickets, contact Professor Vandevelde at kennethv@tjsl.edu. You may also donate online at www2.jdrf.org/goto/KenDeathValley or by check payable to the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation.

TJSL Professors to Serve on Legal Writing Institute Committees

Three TJSL professors have been selected to serve on various committees for the Legal Writing Institute (LWI) for 2012-2014. The LWI is a non-profit organization dedicated to improving legal writing by providing a forum for discussion and scholarship about legal writing, analysis and research.

Assistant Professor of Lawyering Amy Day will serve on the LWI’s Professional Development Committee; Adjunct Professor Jennifer Cooper on the LWI’s Clinical Cooperation Committee; and Adjunct Professor Heather Harshman on the Global Skills Committee.

With more than 2,800 members, the LWI is the second largest organization of law professors in the U.S. Only the Association of American Law Schools (AALS) involves more members of the legal academic community. LWI sponsors many different working committees and projects, including its publications, workshops, specialty conferences and a national biennial conference.
Eight TJSL Professors Named as Top Attorneys

The eight professors named as "Top Attorneys" by the San Diego Daily Transcript in its annual peer voting recognition program were honored, along with other 2012 Top Attorney finalists, at a reception hosted by the business and legal news publication on Monday, July 30.

TJSL Professors Thomas Golden, Julie Greenberg, Marybeth Herald, Luz Herrera, Alex Kreit, Brenda Simon, Jeff Slattery and Kenneth Vandevelde are finalists in the “Top Attorneys in Academics” category, capturing 8 of the 11 peer-selected spots in that category.

TJSL Adjunct Professor Garrison Klueck made the Family Law Top Attorney finalists.

According to the newspaper, The Transcript conducts a peer voting process to determine the “best and brightest” lawyers in 14 categories representing private, corporate, academic and government practice. The categories have been selected to represent the main areas of law practiced in San Diego County. More than 6,000 email invitations were sent to San Diego attorneys, resulting in more than 800 nominations.

Nine TJSL alumni made the Top Attorney finalists in various categories.

Andrew Dunk ’86 earned enough peer votes to merit recognition as a Top Attorney in two categories. TJSL alumni Top Attorneys and their categories are:

James Matthew Brown ’81, Personal Injury/Property Damage
G. Cole Casey ’96, Criminal Law
Andrew Dunk ’86, Insurance and Personal Injury/Property Damage
Joshua Gruenberg ’92, Personal Injury/Property Damage
Matthew J. Liedle ’86, Insurance
Rebecca Lack Mowbray ’86, Insurance
Brett J. Schreiber ’05, Personal Injury/Property Damage
David S. Schulman ’92, Family Law
John Schweitzer ’92, Family Law

The Transcript announces the finalists in its Top Attorneys awards program each year in a special supplement and on the Transcript’s website.

Congratulations to TJSL’s professors and alumni who are San Diego’s 2012 Top Attorneys!
